Owner:

ARB Application:

Building Permit:

The proposed project is subject to review and approval by the Architectural Review Board (ARB). The ARB is a discretionary review process which reviews projects according to standards in PAMC Chapter 16.48. The ARB process may result in changes to the design as currently submitted.

The undersigned requests concurrent processing of the project’s ARB review and building permit application. The undersigned acknowledges that revisions resulting from the ARB review will require revised working drawings for building permit review and understands that there may be additional plan check fees and potential time delays associated with processing the revised drawings. Any additional plan check fees shall be the responsibility of the applicant.

The concurrent processing does not limit the authority of the ARB to review the project according to the criteria contained in Chapter 16.48 of the PAMC.
